(ターナーでアフタヌーンティーしませんか?)

(Mary and John shop for gifts)

John: Seen anything you like yet Mary? I've got my exhibition book already!

Mary: Wow that was quick! I suppose I should get one too really, shouldn't I?

John: That reminds me, have you exchanged your ticket for the tea yet?

Mary: Oh, yeah, I sure did. Look. (Takes it out of her bag.)

John: Taylors of Harrogate, That's bound to be good.

Mary: Do you know what, John? Do you fancy coming to my place after this for a cup of tea? I really appreciate what you did for me today.

John: Really! Are you sure?

Mary: Of course!

John: In that case I'd love to. (Picking up some scones from the gift display)
Well if we're gonna have tea we're gonna need some scones!

Mary: (Pauses to think and takes one step closer to John)...Yes. I suppose so.
